3.1 Caste Discrimination

Caste system is the most dominant reason for inequality and discrimination in India. The caste system originated in the Varna system of the Vedic Aryan society. In the beginning Varna was an occupation based flexible social division. In the Later Vedic Society, the Varna system was expanded into a rigid, discriminatory, birth based graded caste divisions.

Many people in India have fought against caste oppression. The most prominent among them was Dr. B.R. Ambedkar. He belonged to a such depressed family and suffered discrimination throughout his childhood. He fought actively for the annihilation of caste so as to ensure equality among all the citizens of India.

3.2 Gender Discrimination

Gender discrimination refers to health, education, economic and political inequalities between men and women. For example, A girl is not allowed to go to college after finishing her schooling. Similarly, most of the girls are not allowed to select a career of their choice rather they are forced into marriage. In some families, girls are not allowed to wear modern dresses while boys in such families often wear modern dresses.

3.3 Religious Discrimination

Religious discrimination is unequal treatment of an individual or group based on their beliefs. Religious discrimination has been around for a long time. There have been problems between people of different religions for thousands of years. Our Constitution has provided equality for all irrespective of their caste, religion, language, place of birth etc. Yet discriminations are still in practice even in worship places on the basis of caste, religion, gender and language. Our great social thinkers have been crusading against such discriminations and inequalities.
